Our Code of Conduct – Our Values

Quality Statement – Quality is in our DNA

The quality and reliability of our company's products and services are of the utmost concern and responsibility of every person in our organisation and runs deep in our company's DNA.

From administration to installation, quality assurance encompasses every aspect of our business.

In-built quality starts with research and development and continues right through design, project management, production, installation and maintenance; each division has quality-related responsibilities that are critical to each project's overall success.

"Quality Assurance" means exactly what it implies: assurance that quality is compliant when compared with the reference standards or specifications by using testing, sampling or other accredited methods.

Compliance is required before goods can be supplied to our customers.

These principles are basic to our company for the assurance of product and service quality.
